Old Business:
Public Notices – Legal Advertising – Mr. Hutchinson shared a copy of an email and related documents he received from Central Penn Legal Journal. It was agreed Mr. Hutchinson may invite Central Penn Business Journal to the next COG meeting to discuss a possible joint advertising agreement between CPBJ and multiple Lancaster County municipalities. The municipalities would agree to publish their public notices in the Journal for a period of time and the Journal would defend the municipalities in any lawsuit which may result. In the meantime, the COG members will reach out to LIMC to see if they would be willing to enter into such an agreement and invite them to also attend the next COG meeting.

New Business:
The new county-wide communication system is placing a hardship on volunteer firefighters who must purchase new pagers at a minimum cost of $650.00. Some municipalities are helping to offset their volunteers’ costs. WHT is adding a separate line item to their budget next year entitled “Unfunded County Mandates” to address such situations. There was discussion on coordinating efforts among municipalities, police and fire chiefs to have a representative present at County meetings and to bring the County’s practice of unfunded mandates to the public’s awareness.
